Inge Zwolle

My name is Inge Zwolle. Since a few years I paint in a very realistic way, just like the famous Dutch painters from the 16th and 17th century: oil on panel, oil on canvas, or, in this particular case oil on a dining plate. My subjects are mostly small things close to home, e.g. a dish towel on a clothesline, a few pieces of fruit, or some eggs in a bowl.

I find the simplicity of these objects intriguing and heart-warming. Painting is to me like meditating: it clears my mind and makes me feel happy and free. I am grateful to be able to do this.
